SEEK IN VAIN FOR KIDNAPPED GIRL

No Trace Has Been Found of Mary Burns, Enticed from Her Philadelphia Home by a Strange Man.

PHILADELPHIA. June 8.-No trace has been found of Mary Burns, the fourteen-year-old girl who was enticed by a strange man on Monday afternoon from the vicinity of her home, No. 1906 South Camac street. The last seen of the pair was by a neighbor, who says she saw them riding north on an Elev-D.S. enth street trolley car.

Mary was playing with her younger sister. Teresa, and two other little girls, in McKean street, when the man accosted them.

"How would you like to go to Trenton and nurse babies?" he said, placing his hand patronizingly on Mary's shoulder.

The three other girls became frightened and ran away, but the man held so tightly to Mary that she was unpile to break away. The last her playmates saw of her she was walking down the street with the man clutching her shoulder.

He is described as being tall, of dark implexion, with a smooth shaven face. He wore a blue serge sult, black deroy hat and patent leather shoes.

The missing girl has blue eyes, light hair and wore a white waist, black sairt and wore a white waist, black sairt and a black patent leather hat. The waist has ten cross bars on the front and seven on the back.

Mary's mother and father are distracted over her disappearance. The latter spent all of yesterday visiting pulice stations in an attempt to learn his daughter's whereabouts.
